My work over time...

Three Fun Facts

I'm a self-confessed Millennial Monk

My definition of having a good time means having regular rhythms of solitude, silence, and rest where my commitment to contemplative living is fostered.

I love attending retreats

I love contemplating life's mysteries, and attending programs dedicated to deep inner work that can expand my understanding about the meaning of my life.

I'm a Loki Laufeyson (MCU) and K-drama fan.

On my idle days, I spend my time watching these goodies.

My Ministry and Vocation

Companionship retreat with a group of doctors in Malaysia (2018)

Provided Spiritual direction to seminarians last August 2023

Mentoring Group in Centerquest Asia 2023-2024

Group of women that I'm currently companionship.

Entire cohort of Centerquest Asia

Three reasons why I decided to join KODEGO

Career Shift and Earnings

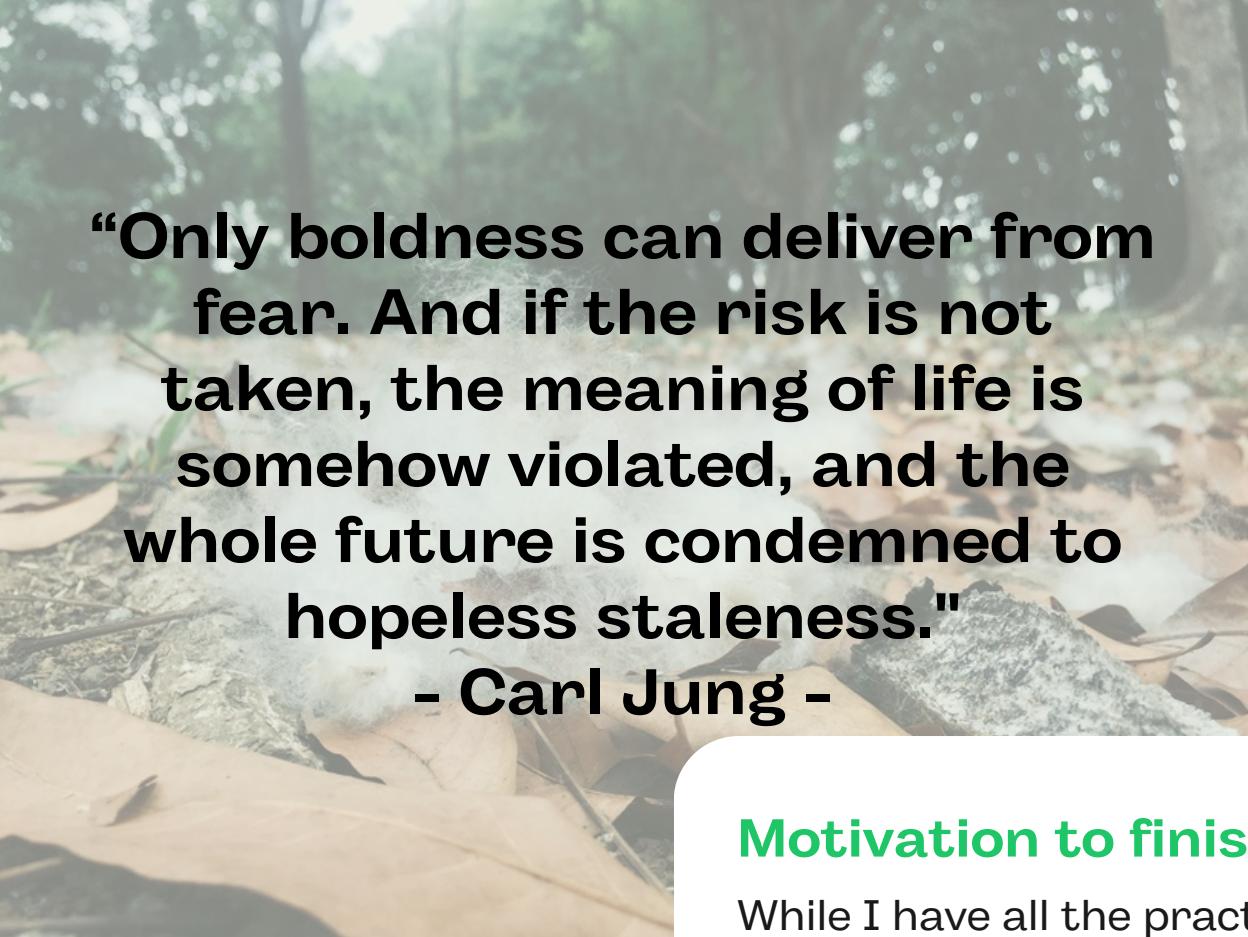

On the more practical side, needless to say I'm eyeing this program to be my future bread and butter. Being a pharmacist and managing a business for me has reached a plateau. These two no longer excite me to wake up and go to work.

I want to land a work that promotes social change in the tech Industry

It was during the pandemic that the thought of going into tech first came out. It was when I watched a documentary in Japan where some tech savvy people created an app that saves food from getting spoiled. I thought the idea was brilliant and I wanted to be a part of these ongoing movement in tech that is already shaping the future.

To become a full-stack web developer

The possibility to create and impact change through coding and technology is one of the things that motivates me.

“Only boldness can deliver from fear. And if the risk is not taken, the meaning of life is somehow violated, and the whole future is condemned to hopeless staleness.”

- Carl Jung -

Motivation to finish the course

While I have all the practical reasons why I wanted to join, my motivation to continue until the end runs deeper than what was stated. It all goes back to my search for meaning in life. I'm old enough to know that not risking in life is a dangerous way to live, and doing things half-heartedly is a sure way to desperate hopelessness. And definitely there's no meaning that can be found in these two.

For human beings, the drive for meaning is stronger than the drive for physical survival. We need to make sense of what happen to us. This is a given. Killen & debeer
